

go4peace-2020

let go and let it happen!

It's Thursday, July 23rd, 2020, and we have been working feverishly over the past few days to prepare the technology for the go4peace camp 2020 in the Holy Family Community Center in Kamen. In times of Corona we will be only a small group of 10 young people under the conditions of "social distancing". Everything else will take place in many places in Europe - networked through internet conferences in the morning and in the evening. Let go and let it happen!

It's just before 9 in the morning. We've been together for the first time in our go4peace steering group for a good hour now. Besides Bernhard, Heinrich and me, the "old hands", Artemida and Paulina, Pascal, Niko and Max have come. Late in the evening Valentina and Teja from Slovenia will join us. They had already booked "before Corona" and can come now that the travel restrictions within the EU have been lifted again.

Two studio corners have been set up in the large hall of the parish center. One - with a bar table and the colourful go4peace logo - for the moderation of the two daily internet meetings, the other one for interviews and music recordings with a comfortable sofa. Three cameras are set up in front of the two scenes and behind them Bernhard and Heinrich sit at two tables - surrounded by many cables, laptops - with headphones as technicians. They use the Internet to network all the young people who have otherwise met live in the camps and got to know each other better in workshops of the most colourful kind. Let go and let it happen!

We look at the 3 by 4 meter large screen, which is the formative instrument in the whole room. The Internet conference is opened. At first we only see the faces of our technicians on the screen, but then more and more windows from all over Europe open. Artemida, who comes from Albania and has worked as a volunteer in Kamen for a year, has taken over the morning moderation. With her friendly manner she welcomes everyone who joins in timidly. "Good morning Gintare in Lithuania!" we hear. We look into the beaming face of a young Lithuanian woman who was in Kamen a year ago for the opening of the Renovabis Pentecost campaign "Learning is Life" and then in the camp in Brno. Since then she has been on fire for go4peace. When we ask when she will meet her group of 21 young people, she looks a little worriedly into the camera. A Corona suspicion has arisen in her group and so all young people have to undergo a test. It is not yet clear how the go4peace camp in Lithuania will continue. Let go and let it happen!

While we are experiencing this, the next ones are already joining us: Edita, Nikoll, Donika, David and Franë from Kosovo, Mihaela, Lenart, Matej, Marko and Urša from Slovenia, Amela from Austria, Anna and Marta from Poland, Simon from Norway, Mihajil from Serbia, Minja and Šimo from Bosnia and Herzegovina, Tomaš, Hanka and Anežka from the Czech Republic, Alexander from Germany, Rikardo from Albania, Sergii from the Ukraine, later there will be Agata from the Netherlands and many others in the mentioned countries. "Did you sleep well?" is heard by almost everyone as an introductory question and on their faces you can read that the joy of being connected is definitely stronger than the tiredness. After all, it's holidays and everyone is motivated to get up before 9 a.m. to experience the virtual meeting.

How happy we are that the operating temperature of Rikardo in Albania is already relatively high, because he has taken on the part of getting the whole group moving with small morning animations. This is how the animation "fruit salad" gets the day off to a good start. All participants are assigned certain fruits. The bananas go to Norway and Germany, the apples to Austria and Slovenia, the pears to Albania and Poland, the kiwi to the Ukraine and the honey that is added to the salad at the end is for everyone. Rikardo starts to tell a story and as soon as the individual fruits appear, the participants have to get up and turn around - in the case of honey, this applies to the whole group.

There is a lot of laughing and joking, but after a good 5 minutes there is movement in every window on the big screen and much laughter can be heard.

The soul of each one is now well prepared to receive a short thought from the Gospel of the day. It is time for the motto. On this first day we start with the motto "Open your heart! - "Open your heart!" into the day. I am impressed by the intimate attention of the listeners, which can also be felt in this digital encounter. While our band plays live music, all the thoughts that have been brought in resonate. When the music ends, I see how many of the young people form a heart with their two hands. The mutuality of love has already begun. Then there are a few technical and organisational tips before we start the day in the different countries.

With this we finish the first internet meeting. In the big hall of our parish center applause is breaking out. The "camp in Corona format" has begun. The young people have jumped up in the new way from 13 different European countries. We let this joy flow into the daily mass in the morning after the impulse in the community center and then it's our turn to understand how things should continue, because also regarding the daily structure in our group nothing is as usual. Let go and let it happen!

The small band starts to rehearse songs. At the same time, the idea is born to not only rehearse well-known songs, but also to write one of their own. Which title do you think it will have? That is already clear to the music group. The dinner is organized and then soon we will start to create a good evening program with the two moderators for the evening - Paulina and Niko. The groups are invited to upload photos, experiences and small videos into a cloud. The material arriving daily is prepared and processed by the two technicians. Niko always arrives around 13 o'clock, because he works after work before. So it is important to get him immediately into the flow of life in the camp. Paulina will travel to Poland for four days during the camp for a wedding. Valentina and Teja will only be there from Friday morning. Pascal will not be able to be there for one day. So the motto here is always the same: Let go and let it happen!

During lunch, there is a deep conversation about the topic of "identity". Artemida, who has been in Germany for a year now, comes from Albania. She was baptised during the camp in Koszalin in 2018. Her wish is to find a future in Germany. - Who am I? Pascal has his roots in Poland, he loves this country dearly, but he also knows how to deal critically with different tendencies in his homeland. He lives in Germany, but would like to have two citizenships. - Who am I? Niko's roots also go to Poland without him having learned the Polish language in his family. He should be completely rooted in Germany. He experiences his family as a real patchwork family. He has just finished a bachelor's degree in psychology, now it is time to understand the next step.

- Who am I? This topic will remain a virulent one, also in many individual conversations during the camp. Let go and let it happen!

Before lunch at noon we invited all participants of the network to pray a prayer for peace in their countries and to have a short time-out. So we gathered in the parish center for the midday bell-ringing and prayed:

*“Lord, make me an instrument of your peace
Where there is hatred, let me sow love,
Where there is injury, pardon,
Where there is doubt, faith,
Where there is despair, hope,
Where there is darkness, light,
And where there is sadness, joy.*

*O Divine Master, grant that I may Not so much seek to be consoled as to console,
To be understood, as to understand,
To be loved, as to love.*

*For it is in giving that we receive,
And it's in pardoning that we are pardoned,
And it's in dying that we are born to Eternal Life.
Amen.”*

A lot of photos and videos had already arrived from Slovenia in the early afternoon of the first day. We saw how the Slovenian group was active in three places in their country. In Maribor, Kranj and Ljubljana. A young Jesuit named Marko had joined them, a real gift. Photos told us how the young people renovated playground equipment in a kindergarten (all the paints and brushes had been donated to the group free of charge by a company!), how they helped an old man to renovate his apartment and how they tore down an old wooden barrack and rebuilt it for a homeless person. And in every face a deep joy! Marko told about the old man whose flat had been renovated. "At first we didn't even know each other and were a bit uncertain. But we lived the motto and opened our hearts. The man's heart fell so quickly to us that the evening we said goodbye, he asked us in tears if we would come and see him again sometime." The program for our evening show was quickly put together. Besides photos, film sequences and reports of experiences from the countries, great music was presented, "worshipping and more". And always new the question about small experiences with the word. "I was really jittery before the first moderation in the morning", Artemida told us, "the motto helped me a lot to dare. I simply opened my heart to everyone who was visible on the big screen and so a dynamic came into the meeting that I am really happy now."

Mihalea, who had come live from her car in the morning with her small group to be connected with us, told us in the evening: "I was in the group where we tore down the small hut. Next to me there were only young men in the group. As soon as I did some challenging physical work, they wanted to take it off my hands and said, 'Let's do this, you don't have to do that! But I also wanted to do some manual labor. I remembered the motto and opened my heart to the outside and became a little energetic. I said to the guys: 'Now let me do it too. I want to do that too, because don't think that we women are too weak for that! And then I helped take down the roof of the hut.'" With a smile she added: "And I think the boys were quite impressed!" Let go and let it happen!

When I saw the radiance of Mihaela on the screen, my thoughts wandered back. Only a few weeks ago she had contacted me and felt a little overwhelmed with the task of animating and leading the three small groups in Slovenia. That is why she had asked a priest if he could join in. Now she did not know what role this priest should play. So we had met via Internet for over an hour. We began to talk about the mystery of the Church, which lives in many small cells - networked all over the world. And in each cell, I let Mihaela understand, Jesus wants to live - Jesus in the midst of His own. That is the most important thing. Jesus wants to have many "mobile churches" all over the world, networked with each other and thus leaven for all humanity. "And to live this mystery of a living cell, you have everything" I made Mihaela understand. More and more she discovered that cells can live without a full-time person from the church. Just the day before this conversation, we had sent all the camp participants of this year the booklet that had just been published "pretty colourful and stormy as well".

The second chapter of this book was about this very discovery of how we can live to keep Jesus on board all the time. I told Mihalea about the five tools described there, namely (1) to do the words Jesus gave us in the Gospel, (2) to offer space to Jesus in mutual love, (3) to learn to pay attention to what I feel in my heart, (4) to live moments of truth, (5) and to discover our own way in confidential dialogue. Since Mihaela had not yet received the booklet, she wrote down all these little suggestions. The young woman, who at the beginning still seemed completely worried, was suddenly really happy. I smiled and asked her, "Can you feel how happy you are?" - "Yes!" she called out to me in German, even though we had spoken in English. "You know, Mihaela, this is Jesus among the two of us right now, who puts this joy in your heart. You have experienced Him again and again in the camps you have been to. He is the one you followed. Just make sure that He always finds space in your group and can be on board. Then you have everything you need!" With this confidence she had started into the camp. Let go and let it happen!

The first days of the camp - until the weekend - were full of activities and life. In Poland Andrzej had organized a great go4peace weekend in Kołobrzeg. The Polish youngsters were out and about in canoes and had wanted to clean a river of rubbish. But probably another group had done that before, so they had hardly found any trash. We had to laugh heartily.

Two groups had formed in Albania. In Shkodra, 28 young people, along with Rikardo, Sister Rita and Sister Giystina, set out for various activities. They had played with children in Fermentim, restored two apartments, promoted a project on oral hygiene, cooked and brought a warm meal for more than 100 Roma and Sinti and left for a meeting in the mountains of Albania on Sunday at Fë. On Saturday evening, together with Archbishop Massafra and Sister Rita, they had reflected on the steps to be taken to implement the encyclical "Laudato si" in their own lives.

In Tirana, the Mraja sisters Elona and Emanuela, who now live there, had joined forces and developed joint go4peace activities. Together with Regjina from the Women's Focolar in Tirana, they had set off for a small village in the mountains where children had to live under miserable conditions. They had spent a whole day sharing and playing with them and had brought some food. Of course, at the end of the day, the children asked: "When are you coming back?" On Sunday, the group around Elona and Emi, which Mariaklelia from Shkodra and two others had joined, had organized an art workshop in the mountains outside Tirana. As they talked at the meetings in the evening, the joy in their hearts was more than evident. They too had made the experience: "With Jesus in our midst we have the light we need for our ways! With Him among us we are leaven for our city!"

The Lithuanian girl had tested positive for the Covid19 virus. So the whole group was quarantined for 14 days. They had sent us photos of all participants. We quickly printed them out and formed a heart from these photos. When we showed this at the meeting in the evening, Gintare, Evelina and Sonata, who had joined from Lithuania, had tears in their eyes. They felt that they were not left alone in this difficult situation. On the contrary! We had taken them especially into our hearts. Let go and let it happen!

"How can I experience 'Jesus in the midst' if I can't believe in Jesus?" This question was asked by a young man, Amela, who had come to Vienna from Graz with two other students to live with a small group of go4peace. The two had spoken for a long time. The young man had noticed the special atmosphere in the group that attracted him. The hidden God, who cannot be named but can be experienced with the senses of the soul, had touched him with his mild light. From then on he was present at every internet meeting.

And then came the second week. Many activities of the first week were done. So there was more time to involve the many individual participants more in the program. They were faithfully present at every meeting, Marta and Anna, Agnieszka from Poland, Agata currently in the Netherlands, Sergii from Ukraine, Simon from Trondheim, Sonata from Lithuania, Edita and David, Frane and Nikoll from Kosovo, Tomas, Anežka, Terežka and Maruška from the Czech Republic and many more...

But somehow our group in Kamen needed more food for the new week. The booklet "pretty colourful and stormy as well" came to our minds. Now we had to work with it, also for the many go4peaceler in the countries. But how? Let go and let it happen!

The 5 tools that can help to "keep Jesus in the boat" were offered.

We decided to take one tool every day, discover it, deepen it and then present it to the young people at the evening meeting on the net. No sooner said than done!

We started on Monday with the first tool: "Do as Jesus tells you to do!" The access was not difficult, since all participants were already used to live with the words of Jesus day by day and making experiences with them. For this day Madleen and Leander had announced themselves. They wanted to do a church internship. To get started, they were given the task of taking part in a small video, the content of which was about the first tool. I had written a directing text that they had learned well. So the shooting could start immediately. It was a lively cooperation. We invited them to lunch. Both gladly agreed. In the following days they came back again and again as soon as their time allowed. "I couldn't even imagine what go4peace is and that's why I didn't want to participate. But now I feel what it is and what spirit lives among us. Now I belong to it somehow!" I heard Madleen say at the end of the days.

On Wednesday of the week I left with Artemida for Altenhundem to visit the go4peace group with Alexander in the "Youth Spiritual Center Tabor". We had planned to discover the third tool and develop an idea ready for presentation for the evening. "Say what you feel in your heart!" - "Speak from your heart!" was the tool and thus our task.

"What is this tool actually all about?" Artemida asked me. We read the text from the booklet and I explained to her how important it is to perceive what I have in my heart, in my "anima"... Artemida did not understand. I tried it a second and third time, somehow we couldn't find our way into the soul of this tool. Then we arrived at the go4peace group in the Sauerland and found there a wonderful lively group. A peace reminder was just painted, rooms were designed and decorated, a Sauerland bench was created and angel wings were applied to a house wall, so that everyone who stood in front of it became an angel. After an enriching encounter we continued our journey. Again the tool came into view. Artemida told us: "Last night I was really angry with myself!" I asked. "Yes, I had forgotten the house key of my host family and nobody was at home, so I had to wait almost two hours until midnight. But then I sat in the garden and thought about a lot of things, because I didn't want to be just mad!"

"Whoopee! That's it!" it went through my mind. "Do you realize that anger has completely taken over and blocked your soul. "You have perceived it and given it space. And then you found a very simple way to become aware of the feeling and its power and somehow to say goodbye to it again! Suddenly we had the clarity. We discovered three small steps with which this tool could be described in an understandable way: "Notice that there is something moving your heart! (1) - Find your personal way to give space to this feeling in you! (2) - Say this feeling to yourself, better still: Say it in your little boat team, not to solve it, but only to share it (3)... When we were back in Kamen, we had the evening presentation clear and the young people could easily pass it on to the young people in the countries.

The next day we faced the next tool: "Find moments of truth!" The three of us sat outside a kindergarten in the sun. Now how should this tool be displayed? Niko's idea: Let's just make such a moment of truth. The lot fell on me. Niko and Artemida were a little perplexed if they were to tell me, who is almost 35 years older than them, from the attitude of a true love, how and where I could still go on and grow. It succeeded very well and I felt well understood. Then in the second round it was time to say where God's plan already shimmered completely through me. It became paradisiacal moments. "Now I have understood what such a moment of truth is" I heard Niko say and so they could pass it on to the others in the evening.

The evening before the last day had come. Auxiliary bishop Manfred Grothe joined us from Paderborn. He came for dinner. With cheese and bread we immediately got into conversation. A deep exchange relaxed. "What keeps you at Jesus' side?" he asked the young participants. Each one gave his partly very personal answer. Artemida then explained to him how the sequence of events of the upcoming Internet meeting had developed throughout the day and who would probably join from where in a few moments. Tensely he sat down in the control room. Over 25 stations were connected with over 100 young people from 13 nations. Today was the 5th tool in the series "Find your way in confidential dialogue!" The importance of spiritual guidance came into view. Three participants told what it meant for them not to have to find their way alone, but to be accompanied. Then Teja read the text from the booklet and Artemida read the story of Samuel's vocation. Old Eli had helped Samuel to understand the call of God.

There was a deep meditative awareness among all. Jesus in the midst. In the end Auxiliary Bishop Grothe gave his blessing to all. He remained deeply moved for another 10 minutes. This is like the European Parliament, he said jokingly. You have here all the countries together. And it's really as if they were here, very close and very much alive. A real and living way of being church. I feel that the old slogan "Jesus yes - church no", that's not possible! Jesus is among you / us and that is church! As he drove, I had tears in my eyes, because I felt as if after 25 years of waiting, he had blessed this way go4peace. Very simple and plain, unobtrusive, networked with all of Europe. Let go and let it happen!

As I lay on the bed in the evening - exhausted but happy - an inner image came to my mind again, which had been given to me last year during the holidays in Valais. While praying in a Mass after receiving Communion, I had the impression of seeing stars in the sky with my eyes closed. I was amazed. I closed my eyes again. There were seven stars. And then I had the impression that these seven stars were connected by red lines - the great chariot. My heart was deeply moved. God wanted to tell me something. Places - far away from each other - shining brightly in the white light - Jesus in their midst - connected with each other by the Spirit of Love. Rita had painted this picture into the booklet without knowing about my inner picture. And this picture had been fulfilled in these days in go4peace-Camp2020.

On 27.11.1975 Chiara Lubich had told the inhabitants of Loppiano:

*"What struck me most,
as I deepened this reality of 'Jesus in the midst',
is that few people are enough, that he may be among them, two or three (cf. Mt 18:20)
And wherever he is, he brings forth the work, to whom he became man, came to earth: the church.
This has kindled in me a fervent passion,* to build him thousands, thousands upon thousands, even millions of churches.

Not buildings made of stones, but 'churches' of two or more people, who are united in his name, all over the world...

This Jesus in the midst of such 'mobile' churches, that can reach every corner of the earth, will surely be the soul of tomorrow's world..."

Jesus in the midst of His own, we were allowed to touch Him, networked throughout Europe, in Sarajevo and Altenhundem, in Mostar and Vilnius, in Kołobrzeg and Osová Bitýška, in Shkodër and Klinë, in Ferizaj and Trondheim, in Kiev and Tirana, in Vienna and Ljubljana, in Graz and Hodonin, in Pristina and Novi Sad, in Gjakovë and Kamen ...

When I look back today, a week after the camp, I can say: we have been guided. Jesus in our midst was and remains our way. He helped us to start a new stage of the go4peace network. Let go and let it happen! Many reactions testify to this:

"One evening Alexander called me and told me about his idea to participate in the virtual go4peace camp and to combine this with the renovation of the rooms in Lennestadt, which was always planned anyway. Actually, I'm not particularly spontaneous and rather anxious when I can't plan and evaluate actions exactly, but since I've already experienced so many positive things with TABOR and the motto "Just do it!" from the Young Mission Weekend came to my mind, I agreed to participate on the phone. And I'm very happy about this decision.

Laura from Germany

"It was stirring to see the joy of many participants. Even though each of us was in a different place and under different conditions, I still felt a strong connection, something that is hard to say but can be experienced. I felt that Jesus was among us. We were connected in mutual love. I experienced again a new community in which everyone is accepted without distinction. Everyone can belong to this community. Jesus is the one who connects our hearts in this way and leads us to wonderful experiences in our lives. As if during the camp the life of each of us deepened and became more fulfilling. We had the courage to do this. We motivated each other."

Tomaš from Czech Republic

"Start again" is the wish of many people in a certain moment of their life, and this was also one of the best mottos of this year's go4peace camp, which was virtually organized due to Corona.

We couldn't shake hands and hold each other in our arms, but we were able to do the most important thing, which was to read the gospel and share the experiences. I come from Kosovo, and we were not able to organize anything in our country because of the early second corona wave that took place here. But Fr. Meinolf gave us the chance to be part of the camp. I had to stay in the house all day because of Corona, but being part of go4peace made our situation much easier. To hear about the actions of others and the workshops that were prepared and held in other countries touched me very much. Again and again I felt the presence of God among us. This simply made me feel alive and infinitely grateful and filled me with a deep joy. My days became better by living with the mottos and began to appreciate the small beautiful moments that God gives us always anew."

Edita from Kosovo

„I wish I could have been part of an actually organized group this time, but unfortunately the circumstances this year are "special" for everyone. So I was there alone - sitting in front of my laptop. I just wanted to warmly congratulate you for making it happen. I'm pretty sure it was even more difficult than a real physical camp, but you did it and you were great. Your commitment to it and the way you put your hearts into it is literally a new inspiration to me personally. I thank you for always radiating so much positive energy and I thank you for giving us examples of how to live our lives from our faith and how to continue to give this love to others.”

Simon from Kosovo

"What I take away from this camp is that despite different perspectives and world views, common ground can be found as long as we are open to the others. It is important not to approach other people with a preconceived opinion, but to listen to others with an open heart. If we succeed in this, then we will find more and more into a real peace."

Amela, actually Austria

"This year I had the opportunity to organize and live go4peace with young people from my home country Albania. Although I couldn't do all the things I love about the international camps, this year was a great opportunity to discuss topics that are important for our country. We worked together in different workshops and made other people happy. Despite all the daily challenges, we have this power! We also became aware again how much we love our culture, the songs, the dances, the traditions etc. It was wonderful to see all the groups via internet in the evening and to share our experiences from all over Europe. All in all, this was once again an opportunity to remind ourselves that together we can work wonders!

Rikardo from Albania

"Be completely there!" has become a very important motto in my life. During the camp, I tried to put it into practice as best I could. And I learned a lot. In some moments I wasn't quite there. I learned not to get stuck in my anger, but to do it differently next time! What I especially took with me was to listen attentively and to empty myself inwardly to have room for the feelings of others. In this way I can understand the other person better and deeper..."

Clara from Austria

"The sky has touched Slovenia. We have felt the Holy Spirit! I do not have enough words to describe all my feelings during the camp. To use a picture, I felt a great light shining over everything we did. That was the presence of the Holy Spirit." - "On Sunday we had a very nice mass and then we had a picnic. After the Holy Mass we also had an exchange about the past days. It was so nice to hear from everyone what was going on in their hearts. We enjoyed being together so much that we stayed together until 9 pm. We started the days as volunteer individuals and we became a lively group. Bridges have been built! "go4peace - building bridges!" Each of them said they wanted to join us next year, also willing to help organize."

Mihaela from Slovenia

"This year's camp was a challenge, but ALL TOGETHER we made it. We were inspired by the fruits of the previous go4peace camps. (...) With some young people we were able to run a small go4peace camp in Tirana. It was the first time for us to organize such a camp. In the beginning I was a little bit restless. We gave everything we had and everything we could to bring the spirit of peace to some children who live in difficult situations in our city. The work with the young children and the time we spent with them became a blessing for us as well. I really felt the presence of Jesus among us, and the fire that is kindled in our hearts continues to burn. To see all go4peace members united and to promote this way of living gives me hope and I know that we all live in a spirit of peace and love. This was an impressive experience for me. After all, the situation created by Corona has allowed us to continue to expand and make go4peace even stronger."

Elona from Tirana / Albania

"The virus that separated us made us stronger, and that strength helped us move forward and help the needy in our countries. My sister and I managed to build a small Go4peace camp in Tirana. One of the workshops we led was "animation4children".

These children lived in a small village near Tirana. To be honest, I knew nothing about this village, I just felt the urge to meet the children. When we went there, we learned that they had not had any visits for more than four months. No one was interested in them, no one wanted to know if they were well or ill or even if they were sick. Being there was like a light in the middle of the darkness for the children. They were light for us too! They taught us to open our heart more and more. "

Emi from Albania / Tirana

Of course, the last Internet meeting in the evening was a highlight, even if only after technical difficulties. Our computers were simply not designed for the enormous computing power. Nevertheless, it succeeded. Let go - let it happen! Besides many fruits and future ideas, the song go4peace of the Kamen group came into view: It was premiered, a catchy tune for the 175 participants of the camp, which made us understand: The path continues, Jesus among His own, nourished daily by His Word, networked in many places in Europe.

God is living among us you can feel his presence he is working within us His word is the essence.	Gott lebt unter uns Du kannst seine Gegenwart spüren, er wirkt zwischen uns, sein Wort ist der Motor.
Go for peace wherever you are going praise the lord with all your soul, All your heart and all your mind.	Steh ein für den Frieden wo immer Du bist, preis Gott mit der Kraft Deiner Seele, mit Deinem Herzen und Deinem Sinn.
And the angels are singing and the peace bells are ringing and the people are going for peace Yeah, they go for peace.	Und die Engel werden singen und die Friedenglocken erklingen, denn die Menschen stehen ein für den Frieden, Ja, sie gehen für den Frieden.
